

KRYON - BERKELEY SPRINGS, WV - THREE FUTURE POTENTIALS - APRIL 15, 2018

Greetings, dear ones, I Am Kryon of Magnetic Service. This will be a different kind of channelling. It is not a standard message, but instead it is the presentations of three future potentials that you may indeed see. This meeting is being put on and hosted by what is called a "futurist". A futurist is one who dedicates his/her time in trying to predict coming systems in government, economics and potential inventions that might change a culture's future. This then allows humanity to prepare for things in a benevolent way when it happens. That is a futurist. So in honour of the futurist, I would like to paint a picture of three things that you might expect in your future.

One of the questions presented earlier today in the seminar was about electronics and machines and about the future of what you call "artificial intelligence". Where is it going? Is there danger to Human Beings because of it? Is humanity to go into a dark hole of its own creation because it made machines that turned against it? Is it going to do the kinds of things your science fiction movies have presented?

Here is the answer: "You don't know what you don't know." What that means is that your future is not predictable from anything you've experienced in the past. The evolution of circuitry, of artificial intelligence, of technology itself for the last 50 years will not apply to the next 50. The logic of the past presses on you to predict the future, but you can't. All of your fear of future artificial intelligence is based on your expectation that you will create machines that will have the same dysfunctional consciousness of fear, greed, hate and war called Human nature. It's really funny to consider that you are actually afraid you won't be able to control yourselves, and you will create a "thinking machine" that will have the very same broken consciousness you have. Systemic consciousness change is coming.

You simply can't predict a future where the only thing to compare it to is a past that you are moving away from. Example: Please give me the evolutionary ideas on the next generational advance for a better ice box. [Silence] Oh, you don't have them anymore? What happened? The answer is electricity. That would be a systemic change. When you have a huge systemic paradigm shift, do you think it would affect a prediction path you might try to predict? The answer is yes. So consciousness change would be a "spoiler", if you wish to say that, for the futurist's ability to predict the future.

Let me give you three future scenarios in a timeline that is not identified by years, but by a numeric order - one, two and three. So what this means is that there is no timeline for these potentials, but they indeed represent an evolutionary growth from one to the next.

Next, I want to tell you that everything I'm presenting has actually happened, but you haven't seen it yet. "Kryon, how is that possible? Are you talking about Earth?" Indeed, I am not speaking about the earth. Remember, Old soul, you're not just an old soul, you're an extremely old soul. We gave a message some time ago that was titled, "How old are you?" It places your soul on other planets like the earth, going through shifts like the one you have now, only at different times way in the past.

Many of you are awakening to this attribute right now and are remembering what's coming and having feelings that you might have experienced it before. This esoteric remembrance is starting to temper your fear, which is often caused by what you see happening with humanity today. Change is sometimes fearful. But you are becoming more comfortable because at some level you remember where it might go. You have participated in "The Shift" before.

The future is completely dependent upon free choice. That's you, now, here on Earth. How fast the change happens is up to you and how fast consciousness moves is the same. You have free choice to stay in the dark or go into the light. You have free choice for slow or fast change. So if I said it would take 50 years or 100 years, I would be wrong. Faster or slower depends totally upon you and the Humans on this planet. There will be some surprises, and the surprises in technology will be surprises because nobody ever considered them due to what you haven't seen yet. Your expectations are all tempered by your past, and now they can't be.

Scenario Number One

Scenario one is not necessarily in the distant future, but it would be considered the first step of what is to come. The focus for the future of electronics is going to be Human health. Electronics is going to turn more inward into the individual's Human's ability to use technology for healing. Right now, electronic evolvement does not turn inward. It has always evolved outward. It has allowed you to speak to the world all at once and create networks that all can use at once. This is an outward evolution. But now I'm going to speak of electronics that will be turned inward and interface with a person's consciousness - an inward evolution. I give you the first scenario. It involves inventions that have not yet occurred and processes that are not yet understood.

The cancer patient reports to the hospital, lies down, and prepares. But the preparation is not for surgery. Instead, there's something else that's going to happen. A very tiny, small injection of something is going into her body - something that today, you wouldn't expect to work. "Oh, I know," thinks a reader. "It's evolved micro-robotics." It isn't. It's going to be biology, with parts no bigger than a cell you can barely discern.

We are speaking now of the evolvement of what you call stem cells. What if you could take a piece of your systemic cellular structure, one that belongs to your own system, which has a consciousness of you and the benevolence of you, and give it instructions to go to a diseased part of you and rejuvenate it? This is a part of your own system that would never hurt you, which is not artificial, but which is "instructible". The electronics involved will be part of the ability to give instructions and will help imbue your consciousness into the injected cell group to tell it what you want it to do. You are guiding this group of cells through the bloodstream on its way to destroying the tumour, but not in the way you are trying to do now within your medicine. Instead, the tumour is about to be "reprogrammed". Did you know that all disease has a program? Well, perhaps that's something you should work on. [Kyron smile] Disease actually has a "disease consciousness" and works with purpose. But it's not smart, and often doesn't understand that it's killing its host, but only sees growth as the end goal.

This cell group we are discussing is not a form of robotics. It's not artificial intelligence. It's you, inserting your own consciousness into your own body in a miraculous way through inventions that are not here yet. It's part biology, part machine, and part electronics. You will be using it all together in a benevolent scenario that gathers a specific energy around the tumour using a process you don't know about yet. The tumour reacts almost instantly, because it gets reprogrammed. Remember, it's alive, and it is not appropriate in your body. It begins to die right away. It is reprogrammed at a systemic, biological level.

What is it that can destroy disease this way? What you are viewing in this experience is the first wave of understanding of how your personal consciousness can be imbued into special cells that have been harvested from you for this purpose and actually given intent-based instructions. The tumour doesn't fight. It has no choice but to start immediately dying because it has been reprogrammed to "know" it is inappropriate. Is this possible? Is this even feasible? Oh yes! I've just given you a reality that will happen. Consciousness is no longer an elusive concept. It will be measured as energy and used appropriately as energy.

Scenario Number Two

What I have just given you is actually archaic compared to the second one. The cancer patient reports to a building and the building may have a sign that says:

The V Group - Complete and Total Healing!

One-stop Shopping for Disease Elimination

There will be competition within this process, since it is far more available to be created without medical procedures at all. For this reason, it improves and improves. The cancer patient goes into the building. This time, there is no injection.

What you are going to experience now is the evolution of what you call virtual reality. However, you can no longer call it virtual, since the seemingly artificial reality of it blurs into your own reality. Today, you have the beginning of it. You put on a pair of goggles and you can look around and experience an extremely realistic program. You can look around your area with 360-degree sight and see beautiful nature and experience places you can never go. Amazing as you might think this is, dear ones, that's a toy compared to what I'm going to show you next.

The cancer patient goes into the building and ends up in a large room with a very special apparatus. I won't describe the apparatus, for it may give away part of the process. Don't worry, it's coming. It will be invented. It's in the minds and the Akash of those who will do it.

As the apparatus is engaged, in a short time the patient is in another place with another reality. It's one that allows her to stand and walk and be normal, yet she is not really doing any of those things. So real is it that she can interface with others in this seeming simulation. She is not interfacing with a program, but with other intelligences that seem to be Human, because they actually are. The other Humans are in another part of the building, also interfacing with her through the apparatus. This event of hers requires almost the entire building and many other people. She is not alone. Nothing is artificial about the exchange, but everything is artificial that she sees and touches. Indeed, she knows this, but soon she won't remember it.

In this "other reality", she walks into a healing center. It's so real that she can feel the breeze in the park where she is and smell the grass. She walks into the building and uses the elevator, just as she would in her hometown to visit her family doctor. The receptionist takes her name and interfaces with her and she even discusses her family a bit. No exchange is artificial. No intelligence is artificial, but everything she experiences otherwise is through the evolution of electronics that work with her consciousness.

The patient lies down on a couch and above her head is a large video-type screen. As the nurses move around her with objects having wires, her cancerous tumour comes into view on the screen. She is comfortable and in a position of muscular neutrality, as if she were about to take a nap, but she is wide awake and ultra-ready for a confrontation. There is nothing threatening around her at all, but it's so real she can touch and feel everything she sees. The screen above her continues to show the tumour, but she isn't apprehensive, for she knows what's coming. She is preparing for battle.

She is handed some kind of portable controller, where she is able to move a certain way and somehow affect the tumour and its surroundings. It would seem as though she is actually touching her own tumour using the controller, and each time she does, it responds and quickly tries to move away. The nurses warn her not to go too fast, and then they help guide her on what to do and how to move, then they cheer when she does it correctly. Also around her in the room she begins to hear some kind of songs or melodies that are familiar, and with the controller in her hands, she begins to interface with what is on the screen. She slowly sees that she is actually erasing the tumour on the screen. It objects and wiggles and slowly begins to shrink before her eyes. The staff is working with her and giving her more advice. "Watch the colours!" they tell her. "Move your controller with the colours! It's telling you what makes it uncomfortable!" The tumour is almost screaming and moving wildly. She continues to manipulate the controller. The songs and melodies continue, and she slowly realizes that she is singing along with them and smiling the whole time.

Dear ones, this woman is healing her own tumour! It is so real. She is in another world, an artificial world, but at the same time she is not really there at all. However, her body is seeing and feeling things so real that her blood pressure is reacting, her consciousness is reacting, she is sweating and her actual chemistry believes she is in this healing building working hard to outwit disease. In this amazing and extremely real virtual world, she start seeing her tumour being destroyed by her own hands, her own desire to be rid of it, and her own intention and hard work.

The tumour and the patient seem to be in heated battle and she is allowed to rest. She eats a virtual meal and feels it go down into her stomach, then she returns to the couch to continue the battle. This time the tumour seems to sense her coming and turns colours and moves without even being "touched". The woman is singing again. There is joy as she slowly, bit by bit, erases the tumour from her body. She feels the fatigue of the battle and the joy of victory as it shrinks and becomes smaller and smaller and disappears. No more motion, no more colour changes.

The virtual experience lasts a full day. It is so real that she has several meals during that time and her body is actually nourished. Finally, she gets up to leave, but she is not done. Now she reports to another room for tests. The doctors interface with her and begin the standard tests they always have done. There's a needle prick and the drawing of blood - all as usual, all virtual. Then the staff returns with the results. She sees the chemistry and the charts and even the waste material where the tumour was, as its remains are being washed away by her system. The doctor smiles and tells her, "Congratulations! It's really gone," and there is a feeling of joy, elation and celebration.

When it's time for her to come back to the real world, they bring her back slowly. She didn't put on a pair of goggles, dear ones. I'm not going to tell you what she did, but it was complete, immersive, and it surrounded her. There was nothing like it - a virtual world almost as real as if you had stepped into another dimension. [Kryon smile]

When she is fully returned, nobody gives her a "real" test to find out how it worked, because everyone already knows: Complete healing. Her body and her system and her mind cognized the experience as though it were completely and totally real in every way. With the assistance from virtual patterning, which was actually hooked to her consciousness and "knew her", she walked away without cancer. That's the power of future electronics and technology. That's technology turning "inward". It's a future that recognizes what consciousness can do and how powerful the mind is. That's scenario two.

Scenario Number Three

There are always questions about the multidimensional Human Being. "Kryon, is it possible we can ever discover our own multidimensionality and, without any electronics or machines of any kind, change our chemistry in a process that is known, understood and intuitive?" Yes, dear ones. Yes.

The reason I am so certain of this is because this is your blueprint. This is what the whole design of DNA is for. This is the evolution I have spoken of. I'm not going to be able to tell you how long it may take, since the evolution time clock is controlled by the free-will consciousness of humanity. But let me introduce something in your body that actually is designed to do this kind of thing, but which is dysfunctional at the moment. It's something that you know about and have accepted "as is" in all its dysfunctional state. You don't even realize it's broken. You have never seen it any other way.

What we are speaking of is what you have called your "innate". How does it feel to be the highest evolved creature on the planet, with an intellect where you can examine your own existence, ask why you're here, feel the love of the creator, and even say the words, "I am that I am," yet have a part of your own body that is smarter than you are?

Kinesiology (muscle testing) has been used by practitioners and medicine for decades and decades in order to find answers to very simple questions regarding your body that your consciousness should actually know! Here is a statement of truth, and a difficult one for Humans to hear: Dear Human Being, your mind and consciousness, as amazing as you feel it might be, is currently completely separated from your chemistry, and that was never the design.

Let me ask you, logically, does it make sense to you that your biological blueprint would have created a "stupid", disconnected system? "Stupid" because it is counterintuitive to the entire "survival" instinct of every mammal on the planet! The answer is no. It's not logical and it doesn't help you survive at all. In fact, it's so dysfunctional that disease can attach itself to you and you won't know it for weeks until it really gets going. Then you go to the doctor and get the news.

Right now, this innate "smarter body" has to be accessed completely and totally separately through processes that are archaic. Indeed, it can give you signals if you ask, but it won't tell you anything that's happening in real time since there is no "bridge" of elegant connection to your mind that allows it. That missing bridge is what evolution will begin to build.

Innate, the smart body within the multidimensional Human Being, is going to evolve and begin to use that 24th pair of chromosomes that you think you don't have. We have given you the information in the past that you can only see 23 chromosome pairs with your modern equipment. The 24th is still there, but multidimensional. It is not yet understood, seen or recognized. There are actual hints that can be deciphered that would tell a biologist that "something is unbalanced and should be more complete," but the pair is basically invisible in 3D.

This multidimensional, 24th pair is the one the Pleiadeans manipulated when they moved around your old linear set of chromosomes within your DNA to a set of apparently 23. This is what gave you the ability to have knowledge of the creator, God inside, the choice of high and low consciousness, and the ability to create elegant music, art, poetry and painting. It's your Adam and Eve story.

Dear ones, when consciousness starts to increase on this planet and you start to measure and use quantum things, number 24 will reveal itself within the double helix. Then you will have a revelation: "There's more than we thought!" That's when quantum patterning will begin to show itself, and chemistry and physics will be put together and studied in ways they always should have been.

"Kryon, what will be the result of this evolution?" The first thing that you'll start seeing are Human Beings born with a special consciousness where they can "sense" things within their own body and they will become their own healers due to it. They will know all about their blood chemistry without a test. They will know when any disease tries to attach to them, instantly the moment it happens, instead of waiting for something to grow inside them and create pain. They'll be their own medical intuitives. People will see the first stages of this and they'll say, "This is unbelievable. It's not right. It's abnormal. These people are odd and unusual." They will be isolated and tested, because they are evolved. Welcome to Earth, where advanced Humans are often hidden away and feared.

That's what you do, don't you? That's what you've done to the autistics in your culture. It's because you don't see it coming, do you? You don't see the savants in the future, do you? You only see an unusual set of children that have odd communication and who are difficult in an old energy. Since you don't really expect this evolution, you treat these things as sub-standard or difficult. These new autistics just yell, "I'm a nonlinear thinker! Find a way to communicate with me that is not linear!" Yet you are not ready to study what that might mean. These circumstances are actually starting to show themselves in so many ways. Look at what these special Humans can do that you can't, and that will give you a hint of who they are. This evolution is coming. That multidimensional piece of your DNA that you can't even see yet is going to bring your consciousness in line with your innate.

Let me finish with this: What is your innate attached to that is also a mystery that you cannot easily access? I speak again of what is called the Akashic Record of the Human Being. This is the record of all the energy, activity and history of your soul on the earth. Dear one, evolution within the new Human Being is going to connect you to your Akash.

What do you know about the Akash in the old energy? It's something that often bothers you because it only remembers negative attributes about your past lives. Akashic issues are the things that even today you work with to try and suppress. They are subtle and not part of the subconscious mind. They are often revealed by past-life readers or others who can "read" your Akash to the extent they are allowed. But this is all changing.

There will be a meld with the innate and your Akash that gives you full access to the wisdom of the past and full access to dismiss all negative things. This will be one of the most significant evolutionary steps of humanity, this marriage of the Akash, the innate and higher consciousness. That will truly reveal the multidimensional Human Being. When it takes place, you will then look at the facts and the history and realize that you are not from here at all, but that your DNA is from the stars. You'll begin to understand it all because it's all part of a scenario of connection, of a coherence with your brothers and sisters spread all across the skies. That is the future.

"How soon, Kryon?" Not soon enough, but you'll get there. Every single Human, using their free choice, will come back and come back and come back. Each time there will be improvement for a world that has great promise. This is different from before, dear ones, where you never evolved your consciousness and continued the dysfunction of war and other processes that never changed from century to century.

In the far, far distant future, there will come a time, dear ones, when it is your job to seed another civilization in some other faraway place. This will give birth to compassionate action in other parts of this galaxy. Someday, you will work together to create another planet that has your stamp, your DNA, and you will introduce them to the creative source, just as it was given to you.

Are you getting this? Are you really understanding how important you are at this juncture of time? There are so many mysteries, you might say. But they will eventually all be revealed, and you'll be here for that. Don't fear these things, because they come from you, by design. That is the message for today.

And so it is.

KRYON

Parable of Elesea and Her Left Foot (2007)

FORWARD

This parable is one of those delightful short stories that leaves that little fuzzy feeling in your stomach. You know, the type that after it is finished it leaves you glowing and warm inside with a smile upon your face or a tiny tear in your eye. A contented feeling that you are safe and totally being honoured and looked after. One that really touches the heart at a Divine Level. Like all human beings, we tend to take for granted ailments, accidents, cuts, broken bones, dis-easements and other imbalances in our lives as something that just happens. It doesn't seem to have any reason or purpose; some are lucky and others are unlucky to have to go through them. Nothing could be further from the truth. Everything in our lives, no matter how dire, has purpose, has reason, and if we allow ourselves and have faith and trust in our own abilities to discover them, we can heal the condition virtually instantaneously. Elesea is one of these people, who had the faith and continued to search even though at times she was distracted with life and the mundane realities of being human. I hope you enjoy this Parable and not only will it leave you with a warm and fuzzy feeling but that it offers a spark of Remembrance within you, that you can do the same as Elesea did. Find the Root Cause of the problem and cured it through the process of communication directly with it.

THE PARABLE OF ELESEA AND HER LEFT FOOT.

Elesea is a very spiritual young woman who has been walking her path of enlightenment for many years. She understands the ways of Spirit and that she has the power to heal herself, but has forgotten some of the Virtues that pertain to making this potentially possible. She Loves Mother Earth and spends a great deal of her time in nature. A couple of weeks after a major energy shifting activation within her, she cut herself twice on her left foot. She was aware of the cuts and treated them the best way she could, but they only got worse until they stopped all her activities and created a situation where Elesea had to do something about the situation. She was used to taking matters into her own hands and understands that if she is to get better then she has to do the work and make the necessary realisations. The normal medical treatments were stabilising the infections, but they were not really clearing them up. They were not healing the cause of the cuts, not the physical action but the deeper, unconsciousness causes within her mental and emotional programming has to be healed first. Every human being's illness or physical ailments are caused not through any accident, although these can be seem to the truth, no, all problems and imbalances within the human biology is the Trye Reason for illness, disease, physical disorders and ill health.

Elsea, therefore knowing tis innately having now remembered the Truth of this then decided to go directly to the consciousness of the left foot, asking itself for the answer that would assist in the healing of these cuts completely. What did she need to know?

Elsea initiates a communication with her left foot as she has tried to do for some time now. But in the past she never really had her heart fully committed to the task. Having had the left foot now immobilise her she now feels she has no other option and thus makes a new choice. She finds a quiet place, one that was sacred to her, takes three deep breaths, in through the nose and out through the mouth. She then centres her mind with her intention and asks for the consciousness of her left foot to come forward to speak with her. She speaks out loud and knows that the foot will reply telepathically in her mind. She waits a few moments and then initiates the conversation.

"My Beloved left foot" she affirms directly with purpose in her voice, "needless to say that I love you. I love you with all my heart and I feel your pain. I understand that you have a message for me and I am blessed that you have taken so much effort to get my attention. I am aware of you and you have made this so. Thank you so much, you have given me time out to ponder my life and the things that are changing within my mind and soul. I am remembering again and this is what I choose. You have answered my prayers. Left foot, I have tried to tune in and listen to what you are trying to say to me, but many things are taking my attention also and I am distracted and was unable to focus. It is only that I have no other alternatives left that I am making the effort at this time. I still have remnants of thoughts that continue to keep me from moving forward so may I ask you, with the Greatest of Love that I Am, a question?"

"Of course my Angel," instantly responds the left foot, as it hears the request in direct concentration and focus.

Elsea was a little shocked at the promptness of the reply. It was as if the left foot was anticipating the communication. But she settled straight into the Inner Voice that was speaking to her now.

"This is what I have been waiting for," the left foot continues, "this is why I have sat you down to ponder. This is why you have taken time out, yet it has taken you this long to come forward and ask the question that you need answers to at this time. You already know the answer as it is given unto you in your question and introduction, right from the beginning of your intent. But, like so many of you human beings, you watch but you do not see, you listen but you do not hear. This is normal and there is no judgment my Beloved. The time is getting closer where you shall pay far more attention of what and how you think, say and see and the truth of these things will become apparent unto you.

You will then wonder why you have taken so long to remember the knowledge of this level of communication. But all is in Divine Order; trust me I am your left foot. You have trusted me all your life and never questioned the steps I have taken you on or the direction that I have led you. I rest you when the journey is tiring, and I move you on when you need to be moved on. I take you to the places that you love and keep you from the places that you choose not to go. This is my responsibility to you as your left foot. I am responsible for all of these things on a spiritual level. The right foot is the balance and my counterpart so that you do not fall and looks after the physical aspects of your growth, direction and development of the attributes of our responsibilities to you also.

It was not to my liking to go to these drastic measures. I work in unison with your intentions and in doing this, at times, I, as is the rest of your body, is placed in the position of stopping you in your tracks when you have gone too far along your journey, forgetting your way. I am with you every single moment of your life; I have been, from the very day you were born. I have carried you with balance with our friend and Beloved Partner the right foot. We take one step in front of each other every day, each in equal time. We have lifted you, run with you, walked with you, danced with you, we have swum with you, sat with you, laid with you and we have loved with you. It is our job, the left and right foot, to keep you in balance, and these afflictions of the wounds are for the purpose of placing you back in balance once again. I led you to that place where your foot was cut. I claim responsibility for that Dear One, but I did this in God's Love for you. To put you back on your feet so to speak! I had to take you off your feet so that you would stand tall again!

The right foot and I are your greatest companions, and you have kept us in contact with our roots, those of Mother Earth. We thank you from the bottom of the soles of our feet. Yes, we play with words with you Beloved, not souls as in Spirit, for we are One with Spirit. This will make you smile, for we, your feet, can laugh and joke and have fun also. That is why dance was invented, skipping rope and playing those little games with our toes. We enjoy a good laugh and to be tickled, when was the last time you tickled us or allowed someone else to tickle us? We love to be tickled and to dance and play childlike games. You have been reminded of dance not so long ago, do you remember Dear One? Your Love of the land and Gaia is also our Love. That is why we go together on our hikes and journeys by the sea. Do you know that we are the ones who are your direct link to Mother Earth? In both directions, from Mother God's Heart Centre to Father God and from Father God's All That Is to Mother God. And on each Transmission of this Love we vibrate through your heart and all of your Beingness.

Beloved Angel of the Earth and Sky we humbly open to your question; thank you!" says the left foot.

"Wow! I feel overwhelmed with the love you have for me; I feel the Love from Mother God and Father God with their full expression right now. My heart is overwhelmed with this Joy. Oh!" she realises suddenly, "I have forgotten the question!" Elsea cry's out!

"Then we shall help you remember once again Beloved; did you feel the pain of your foot again?" says the left foot as it gives a gentle prodding to the area of the wounds.

"Oh yes, thank you, I feel that, but you do not need to remind me again, for I now know that you wish to communicate with me and when I ask the question you shall tell me the answer that I already know but just forgotten temporarily." she smiles to herself!

"With my acknowledgement of this, you shall not need to remind me ever again with this wound and infection". Elsea shares as she focuses again on the purpose of this communication with her left foot.

"That is correct Beloved and we shall heal the wound and balance the energy back in your foot so that you may walk, and run and dance and swim without us having to get your attention again," explained the left foot. "So what is your question Dear One?" it continued.

Elesea was still overwhelmed with all this communication for she didn't realise that she could have such an in-depth conversation with her foot, or with any other part of her body for that matter. She would always have aches and pains, and other disturbances within her body but just accepted them as part of being human. Oh, as a very spiritual and enlightened human being she knew that one could communicate but never really tried that much. Her conditioning told her and kept her in the old energy of persevering with the pains and aches and dis-easements using traditional methods of healing. But what she was beginning to realise was that her body brings these dis-easements, illnesses and imbalances to her attention so that they may communicate and explain to her what is happening within herself. By doing this, they are then able to give clear and defined answers, guidance and Love so that she may make other choices within her growth and development of her mind, body and spiritual enlightenment. And, of course, to expand her awareness. The left foot was offering a most enlightening message and lesson here for her and Elesea was becoming very inspired by it all.

"Okay!" Elesea said, as she began to think of the question again, "I have now realised that you have given me a great gift and I am in Heaven's Gratitude for the many lessons here, but what is the message you have for me that I have missed? Why has it taken you, to go to such great lengths to "stop me in my tracks" as you have said? Can you explain this to me so I can enjoy our dancing, and walking, and skipping and transmuting the energies from Mother God and Father God and visa versa, and not have this pain and imbalance ever again."

The left foot was delighted with the question for it knew that Elesea was ready for the answer and that she would, as soon as it was given respond and integrate it into her body, mind and spirit as well as her new life. So the left foot began to enlighten Elesea.

"Beloved Child of this Earth and Heaven, as a Child of God you are part of the Universe that makes up All things. You are the microcosm of the macrocosm. You are a Jewel in the Crown of Life. To recognise this for yourself we have chosen to place this wound, this blemish, this imbalance in two places upon me, for in fact, we have two messages for you. Your energies over the past few weeks and months are undergoing huge shifts. Mother Gaia as the macrocosm of yourself, is also undergoing these shifts, you recognise this and that is why you are drawn into the bosom of her chest and held so dearly within her arms. These activations and attunements or alignments of these new energies are bringing to the surface within you many aspects of your past that you are indeed ready to release and let go of. It is my Divine Task and the Work of every cell within your body to assist in these releases. When you are unsure and uncertain, or in fact, get stuck with these releases, we bring the issues to the surface so that you may recognise the issue and consciously release it forever.

We clear the way for you so that you may move energies through you now, rather than hold onto them as you have done in the past. The issues that one has come to this Earth, first begin in your emotional body, if you do not pick them up there they then travel to one's mental body for resolution. If they do not find healing and balance there, they then travel to the physical body. That is when we the body parts pick it up. First we gently give aches and pains and if one does not respond, and most do not, then the stage of the infliction of pain and discomfort becomes greater and greater until that person either deals with the issue or becomes disabled by it. Even death may occur but this is extreme. Very normal in the days gone by. Today as the Energies increase in vibrations around this planet and Solar System, the human biology allows for more awareness coming into the mind and people are becoming aware that they now, in fact, have choices where before they believed they did not. Healing is a process; it does not have to be a condition. Energy Seeks Resolution, that is the Law. That which is out of balance seeks balance at all costs.

You are a Blessing, one that you give yourself every moment. Each breath you take and each breath you exhale brings in the new life and exhales the old. When we position a dis-easement to attract your attention, we the cells of your body, place it in the position that corresponds to the macrocosm and the unification of the whole. This aspect of your body is in direct alignment to the God Head of the All That Is. When you acknowledge it, love it, give gratitude to it for the lesson it has given you, and finally have released it in the knowingness that it no longer serves you, it aligns the energy of Mother Earth with you and through Mother Earth with the All That Is. There is never one without the other, this is the way of it.

The imbalance on top of me between the big toe and the ankle is the aspect of you that aligns you with forward movement. Remember you mentioned this forward aspect within your address to me, mentioning that you already know that you are not 'moving forward'. I wish to bring to your awareness that you are not doing anything about you not moving forward. You are going around in circles both with your mind and as a result within your physical everyday life. My message to you is to assist you in making the necessary choices to move forward again. First we do that which is necessary, then we do the possible and by doing these things in sequential order the impossible can be attained. And with this message I admonish that an incentive would allow this 'forward movement' again.

This is the message! To go forward you need incentive! Incentive is motivation for the mind to interact with the desires of the Soul. Incentive is to create a goal, an aspect of what you choose that will bring joy, harmony and peace back into your life. The use of incentives are to be mindful of the rewards that await you as the result of undertaking possible meaningless tasks. But nothing is every meaningless! Everything you do has Purpose and is Designed when you had the Mind of God. This is Your Design, this is Your Life, so unique and so precise and precious Dear One that all within is God. How can it be any other way? These rewards or incentives are the balances of the energies that you have given as Love to others. When most humans Love another they forget about themselves, they deny themselves that Love. They feel that to have this Love is to give it away and keep none for themselves. But to truly give it away and have it received by those whom you are giving it to, you must Truly Love Thyself first. To keep this level of Vibrational Love, to keep you must give it away, but in the giving is the acknowledgement that you have it to be able to give it away in the first place. Does this make sense?

So Dear One, to move forward in Loving Thyself offer yourself an incentive. A day on the beach, a body massage or perhaps a new job, new friends, new partner, whatever you choose. Indeed a partner who can share this new Love and Abundance with you. The incentive is yours to choose and yours to accept immediately. For in the accepting that you have it already allows its manifestation immediately under Grace, in Perfect, Harmonious and Miraculous Ways.

Repeat this after me Beloved Child and watch as the incentive of Love becomes your reality.

"I, Elesea, command the Divine Pure Flow of untainted Abundant Love, Joy, Peace, Harmony, Self-Worth, Self-Love, Self-Acceptance, Success in all its forms and every other aspect of abundance which my soul believes is a part of my being come into manifestation immediately in accordance with the highest will of my soul under grace in perfect, harmonious and miraculous ways. I consciously choose to release myself from all fearful thoughts, fearful attitudes, conditionings, perceptions, and attitudes of victim consciousness. I consciously choose to release myself on all levels. Conscious, subconscious and unconscious, in this timeline and in all parallel and alternate timelines from the genetic imprints of poverty consciousness, victim consciousness, conditional love consciousness, and lust consciousness that have resulted in me experiencing limitation in this current life and every other life I have lived. I consciously choose to live in harmony and alignment with the Divine template that Mother-Father God created for me at the very beginning of my existence. I Command this Template of Divine Love, Divine Light, Divine Wisdom, Divine Power, Divine Knowledge and Divine Truth Become One with me now under Grace In Perfect, Harmonious and Miraculous Ways. In return, I give up all fear. Beloved Mother-Father God I hand you my fears in return for my Original Divine Will and Plan."

Elesea repeated this as she was asked by her own Beingness, that which her left foot represented at that moment in time. And she gave thanks and gratitude with all her heart, mind and soul for this gift from God and Her Higher Self!

"What about the second message, left foot?" Elesea asked after she aligned her mind back to her body and her left foot.

"The second message Dear One is just as profound, just as important and just as grand for we still remain in my domain, that of the moving forward." the left foot gently and reassuringly whispered.

"The wound on the side of the heal is not as large and this will indicate to you that it is not as dynamic as the message of the incentive, but, indeed, is as important, for this is also part of the aspects that are holding you back. This is why we bring this to your awareness at the same time.

The second message is what you do, you must do for yourself first. In other words, to follow through in the achievement and manifestation of your desires they must be achieved through what you do for yourself. Others will benefit after you have benefited. Your reflection of achievement shall be felt in exactly the same way in others as you receive them for yourself. As you attain Divine Love, Divine Light, Divine Wisdom, Divine Power, Divine Knowledge And Divine Truth, they become One with you under Grace in Perfect, Harmonious and Miraculous Ways. They are then received and potentially acknowledged by those that are ready around you. You will see this for yourself in others and as you see this you shall recognise them for yourself that are then fully integrated within you. This is the Law of Reflection in Action.

There are those already aware of their importance in this world of change but sometimes one forgets for just a moment, and then with a gentle and Loving reminder from their cellular self, 'remember' once again. I am just re-minding you Dear One. We look forward not to have to remind you again but this Work We do is your Work you do with others. Re-membering is the way Home, it is the Gratitude that we are all One that helps in the Re-Membering process.

Have I helped you Beloved Earth and Sky Angel?" The left foot gestures softly.

Elesea takes a big deep breath with all this wonderful vibrational tones of Love and Higher Understanding and exhales a relief of such grandeur and realisation of her own powers.

"You cannot imagine," she begins, "the gift I have received this day. I Love you so much, I am in such overwhelming gratitude for this Blessing. I have released those things I have invoked out loud with you and you shall never have to remind me again. I shall continue to Love you and walk with you. I shall run and skip and Love and dance like never before, but now without the pain of having to be reminded. I ask the wounds to heal in perfect, harmonious and miraculous ways and never return. Thank you, my Dear and Beloved left foot, I shall never look at you the same again. I shall look at you in Love and Light and with the Grace of God that I know I AM, for what you do for me. I shall pass this message on to every cell within my body and if I waiver at any time I shall ask for a gentle reminder next time. I shall become aware immediately and remember again instantly. I choose no pain in my life, no imbalance, only Love at the Highest Levels.

"I Love you so much my left foot, along with all my Mind, Body and Spirit." Elesea takes another big breath and as she releases any remaining imbalances she Bows in her Gratitude for Her Higher Self and the Gift this day.

"You are welcome Dear Angel, and I shall look forward to the new walks, the new runs and especially the new dances. And, don't forget to tickle me from time to time!" the left foot laughs. "I shall lift you to heights you have never experienced in this lifetime in this new Love. Thank you Beloved Elesea for acknowledging me and asking me to assist you in your growth, I AM with you always."

.....

And so, Elesea's left foot slipped silently back into her Higher Consciousness and in Perfect, Harmonious and Miraculous Ways began to heal the wounds and infections of the left foot. The left foot was happy with the communication and felt the changes already taking place within Elesea's conscious mind. She began initiating incentives and began the work through her for herself first.

Elesea went to celebrate with a walk along the beach as she felt the Universe and God fill her heart with Love that day. She noticed that there was no longer any pain, she had been healed in Perfect, Harmonious and Miraculous ways! What an auspicious day it was! How Blessed she was to be reminded by Her 'I Am' Presence Who She Is with, once again.

And So It Is!

Peter shares a True Story when acting as an Intermediary for Elesea, as her 'I Am' Presence of the Left Foot, that may be a reflection of the scenario number three? This was a Creative story for the purpose of sharing with Elesea that which she had forgotten. The reality of which did heal the cuts within two weeks of her reading this Parable of her and her left foot! Artificial consciousness or virtual reality? Perhaps! But it was Elesea's Own Divine Consciousness that Healed her on a practical level as well as at the Causal Level! The Message! Re-Member with Who You Are, and that nothing is impossible when you Call In The Divine Truth of God's Divine Presence within You! You have all the answers to all your own questions, if you give the time to Your Self First! Know Thyself First.

Peter Melchizedek