

THE COSMIC LATTICE PART I – KRYON

https://www.kryon.com/k_26.html

Greetings, dear ones, I AM Kryon of magnetic service!

Oh, it is good to be back in this energy before you. This night is going to be different than the last, for in this place there are going to be changed hearts, with permission. Some of you will see for the first time what the love of God truly is, and how it "shakes hands" with the spiritual part within you that is a piece of the whole. Tonight there will be revealed some profound principles that you are ready for, and the assemblage of humans that is here is perfect to hear it.

Oh family—oh dear ones—we gather this night together, just the few of us, to feel the love of HOME. And we say to you that some will have a difficult time for a few moments understanding that the voice you are hearing (and reading) is no longer the consciousness of my partner who has spoken to you for these many hours (during the seminar). Oh no. For now you are hearing the voice and the consciousness of the one who loves you dearly—that being of the God-essence itself—the one who knows all about your life—the one who loves you dearer than any in the Universe—the one who knows the innermost secrets—the one who has no judgment around you. Oh, listen to this: Blessed are the human beings that will sacrifice themselves as entities of the Universe and willingly come to this planet accepting the frailty of biology—hiding the magnificence of themselves and their Merkabahs, and their colours, in order to stand with other humans and try to remember who they really are. There is no greater love than this, that you would sacrifice yourselves to such a degree as to come here and make a change in the very fabric of the Universe! You heard it right. For what you do here on this planet in the journey itself will change the way things work in a place that you have no conception of.

We use this time (pause) to wash your feet. And it is the theme and the way of Kryon, that between the teaching is the loving. So again we speak of things many of you have heard before, that figuratively we are here this night to reacquaint this energy with yours and to reach out our hands and take each human foot one at a time, and wash it with our tears of joy. Walking the aisles of this assemblage right now are entities you know. Before this time of teaching is over, you will feel them as they encompass you, and put their arms around you, as they tell you they love you. The spiritual entourage here is many times the number of humans in this room, and as we continue this teaching session this night we are going to tell you that this group will become even closer to you. There will be those of you who give permission at this time to go forward in your lives with pure intent, and to understand what is being presented. Tonight's message may seem at first to be impersonal, but as we proceed you will understand why it is being given at this time and what it means.

These are the precious times of Spirit... where you undertake the process that you call channeling. Whereas you may have come to hear the message, I am telling you that the entourage was waiting patiently in this room in the dark long before you got here—preparing the energy—excited about those human beings who would sit in these chairs—knowing your names, every single one of them. Names that you perhaps have never heard, but that belong to your energy. Friends that you've had on the other side—entities that have loved you all your lives—guides and friends of guides—masters each one—waiting for the anointed ones (humans) to come into the room. That's our perception of a Kryon channel, you see. We have been here waiting for you. And as you sit in that chair I want you to understand that YOU are the exalted ones. And WE have come to see YOU!

We're going to tell you some things that have never been told before. We are going to broach a subject, my partner, which is partially scientific and then later personal. And because of what is to come, I want you, my partner, to be very careful as you translate this. Go as slow as you need to, for this information is new. The transcribing process will be complete and we can even see right now those reading this. It will be their "now," but it is in your future as you hear this. For this message will be profound in science, but like so many other science items we have brought to you, dear ones, whereas it may start off to seem universal, it becomes individual very soon... so stay with the message.

We are here to reveal for the first time, some of the way things work that we have never told any group before. And it is indeed appropriate that it be revealed in this place, for the consciousness here is one of love—one of desire for knowledge—one that is serious. And I am speaking to lightworkers that are holding their light high! I am speaking to you, dear one [reading and hearing this]. I know your heart and the purity of it. I know why you're here. This message is for you personally, as well as for the scientists—as well as for the metaphysicians all over the world. So it is that this message will go far. Let it begin.

THE COSMIC LATTICE

We wish to tell you this night of a specific kind of energy. We wish to tell you this night of what some of you will think of as an object, but it is not—it is a phenomenon. It is something so common that it is around all of you, yet so mysterious that few know of it. It is the missing piece of energy that you have been looking for so long. It is the energy of love. It is the energy of Spirit. It is the energy of the Universe and we are speaking this night of something in English that we will call "The Cosmic Lattice." I will dole out this information carefully and slowly to my partner so that you will understand what it is and how it works. And before this meeting is finished this night you will understand how it applies to you.

It is very common in the teaching of Kryon that we start with the big and go down to the small so that you will understand the overview and how it affects the human heart. The Cosmic Lattice, dear ones, is the common denominator of the unified energy source of the Universe. The common denominator—meaning that all things emanate from The Cosmic Lattice. It is difficult to define this all at once, so we will tell you its many attributes slowly this night. The Cosmic Lattice is everywhere. It is throughout the Universe. Everything that you can see and everything you cannot see contains the lattice. From the smallest particles of your physics, and from the electron haze forward, The Cosmic Lattice is present. Those of you in physics will begin to understand and recognize this principle, and it will start to make sense as to what this lattice actually is.

SIZE

Let us first begin with its size. This is only appropriate, even before we define how it works and what it is. The Cosmic Lattice is the largest energy you have ever conceived of. It encompasses the entire Universe and more. It is present everywhere. There is no place that you can conceive of—no matter what the dimension—that is without the lattice. The Cosmic Lattice is perhaps what you could call the consciousness of God and yet it is physics and it is energy and it contains conscious love. Therefore, what we are telling you is that it is pervasive everywhere and encompasses the entire universe, including all dimensions. Can you conceive of something so large? As far as you can see in the skies—as far as any astronomer can gather light over ours on a photographic plate—The Cosmic Lattice is already there. And yet it has one single consciousness all at the same time—always at the same time. Distance is nothing to The Cosmic Lattice and this, my partner, is where things get difficult to explain.

Pretend for a moment that your hand was bigger than the universe itself, and as you outstretch your hand, all of the known matter that exists can fit within your palm in a small ball. You are therefore immense! You have the dimensions of God! Within that ball in your hand there are billions of stars, and within that ball there are distances which seem insurmountable and immense to those entities that live there. Within that ball, which is the Universe, it would seem to take forever to get from one end to the other to an entity traveling within it, yet that ball rests easily in your single hand! The Cosmic Lattice is like this, for there truly is no distance that is insurmountable between your thumb and a finger, and the consciousness of your hand is singular. The cellular structure is of one, interlaced with a consciousness which reacts as one. And although within that ball which could be called the Universe within your hand, there seems to be billions of light years of travel, and space and time to conquer, as you hold it in your hand, that is not so. Everything there—the billions of stars—is in your "now."

So you get an idea of the size of this energy, but you also get an idea of the unification of The Cosmic Lattice. The most distant part of this lattice knows exactly what the part that is here in this room is doing. The part that is between the cells of your biology, which we have called love, knows what is happening 11 billion light years away! The Cosmic Lattice has no time, and we'll talk about that in a moment.

SHAPE - ORDER - LUMINANCE

So the first attribute is the size, and the size is immense. It is the biggest energy known. It is the biggest energy that exists. Let us talk about its shape and this, my partner, is even more difficult. It is not a grid. The Cosmic Lattice has symmetry, however. But it is not a grid. If its shape could be revealed to you it would astound you, for it would give away something, and it would have to do with what you call human time. There's evidence of The Cosmic Lattice already, and we're going to tell you how to look for this evidence. Your astronomers look from your Earth in a way that is as though they had one eye closed. They have not really yet seen a stereoscopic view of what is around your planet that is clear. Instead they look from Earth in a monocular way, with no depth perception of what is surrounding you. Therefore, you have not been able to see the strings of darkness. This is one of the attributes of The Cosmic Lattice that is there for you to see any time you wish. The word "darkness" is interpreted here by my partner to mean "lack of light," as apposed to any spiritual meaning. It is as though you looked into the starry sky at night and saw that many of the star groupings had narrow "highways" of nothing between them... but a clear pattern.

Some years ago we told you that your big bang, wasn't. We told you that it does not make sense to have a universe that explodes from one central creative point, not to be evenly dispersed. And we told you to look for the clumping effect as evidence that there was no original point of explosion. Now there's more, and now we will tell you what that is. For there will come a time when you are able to put your "eyes" and your telescopes at very different and far away places. One may even be on another planet, and together as they look at the universe in a stereoscopic way, like your two eyes look out upon the world, they will finally see the three-dimensional image before them. And what they will see are the highways of seeming blackness between the clumps of star matter. Straight lines of darkness will be evident, giving the Universe direction—giving it symmetry—allowing for a mystery to develop of how such a thing could be—like seeming highways with apparent nothingness between the clumps. Look for it. It is going to happen.

The Cosmic Lattice has no visible light, even though it is the essence of light. The lattice energy is in a NULL balance, and we are going to tell you about that right now. For the energy is in a balanced state called the null balance where the polarity of its most powerful attributes are balanced to zero. The null energy has fantastic power, but in its common resting state, it seems to be void due to the zero balance.. It's when you unbalance the polarity that the power is released, you see. Your astronomers have looked at the Universe and the cosmos, with their ways of measuring the energy there, and they look to the skies and they measure the whole energy. What they have noted with some frustration, is that there is far less matter and light than there is measured energy! This is a known situation with your scientists. Ask your scientists why this should be, and they will postulate all manner of things, including the existence of "dark matter." Dear ones, what they are seeing is void energy. It is The Cosmic Lattice that they are measuring. The Cosmic Lattice energy is everywhere, and when I am done with this message, you will know what triggers it, and you'll know how it's used. You'll know how it reacts to other energy, and you'll know why it exists.

As mentioned, in a nullified form this incredible active energy would appear to you to be at a zero measurement, yet this Lattice is potent at ALL points and in ALL areas. We have referred to it in the very small particles of the atom. When we talked about the distance of the nucleus to the electron haze, we were speaking of The Cosmic Lattice principle. When we gave you the working formula for the distance of the electron haze elements from the nucleus, we were speaking about the interaction of energy from The Cosmic Lattice. When we were talking about the gamma ray activity from 11 billion light years away, we were talking about The Cosmic Lattice. From the largest to the smallest, this energy source is immense and it's quiet. It is only when it is called upon and destabilized in designed ways that it provides power. It is the common denominator and the stabilizer of all energy and matter everywhere—The Cosmic Lattice. And when the physics is known by humans, all manner of things will open up for you, not just in communication, but unlimited power everywhere—UNLIMITED POWER!

TIME-SPEED

Let me tell you about the lattice energy. It responds to TIME. Here is something else for your scientists to look at: When you find an event in the Universe that you know has time altering potential, observe how its physical displayed energy bends. Everything in the universe seems to spin, does it not? And according to the laws of physics, some particles spinning off should be at right angles to the spin. Some should be perpendicular to the spin. That's normal physics. Watch, however, for the ones which are neither! For those are the ones that line up with the symmetry of The Cosmic Lattice. They're the ones that "point" to the lattice patterned energy and we're talking about events such as spewing black holes and other phenomena in the universe which seem to pour forth huge energy in a stream. Watch for those streams to point in a similar direction but not necessarily to physically align themselves to the spin of the object creating them (as you might expect). Your scientists will ask, "Why is such a thing existing?" They eventually must postulate that there is another force which aligns this "pointing," ... like a giant cosmic magnet. They are seeing the energy pointing and bending to the symmetry of The Cosmic Lattice.

You already know that time is relative. Your scientists have told you so, and we tell you that this particular fact is going to play a large part in knowing about the attributes of The Cosmic Lattice. Dear ones, spiritual things on this planet are related to the lattice. The time frame that you are currently in is going to eventually change (as given in past channellings) but is related to The Cosmic Lattice. We have told you that the energy of this cosmic common denominator is related to time, and now we're telling you that time is also changing for YOU. What do you think that means? Let me tell you. It means that The Cosmic Lattice responds to human consciousness! When my partner told you that consciousness changes physics [during the seminar prior to the channeling], that was an understatement. All things are possible with the intent of the humans on this planet right now. For you have literal control of the lattice which is universal. Again, we tell you that the lattice knows on the other side of the universe, your name! We have told you that your consciousness has uplifted this planet into a vibration which is new. This consciousness has actually "pulled" upon the lattice to enable the earth to begin a time shift... one that will be relative to you, but obvious to others (off planet). What this means is that you may see or feel nothing unusual, but eventually look to certain attributes of the cosmos to appear to slow down. This will indicate that you are moving (or vibrating) in a different time frame. We have also given you the physics for this in the past. Now we are giving you the actual mechanical reason behind it, in that The Cosmic Lattice is doing the work. Your consciousness, therefore, has changed the physics of your own reality.

Oh, dear ones, listen to this carefully: You are already aware, many of you, of the communication between humans that seems to surpass any speed known to man. Identical twins—twin flames—soul mates, one on one side of the earth, the other on the other side, often have instant communications that has been reported and witnessed. Perhaps one twin is in an anxiety mode, and instantly the other one feels it! They might call each other and say, "What happened a moment or two ago?" And they both realize they felt the same thing at the same exact time. What does that do to your physical idea of TIME? What does that say about the power of human consciousness to transmute all distance and time? I'll tell you what makes it happen: It's the mechanics of The Cosmic Lattice. You are interconnected instantly, and are using the lattice. It is your Spiritual power source... and it's also using physics.

If we were able to take a human right now and magically transport him to the other side of the known universe—incredibly far away—an unimaginable distance to you—we are here to say that the lattice would allow for a common communication that is instant with him... no matter the distance! Long after this channel is over, some of you are going to be putting together the pieces and the parts of this information, and you're going to realize why some of the things are the way they are in physics. The common denominator of this lattice energy is without light only because it is in a NULL TIME—null energy and null time.

We have spoken of now time, an inter-dimensional spot where Spirit is, and where all the things in the past and the potentials of the future are in one place—that is now time. The Cosmic Lattice is NOT in now time, it is in null time. Null time, dear ones, is time which equals zero, whereas now time has motion in a circle. The Cosmic Lattice is in a constantly balanced state, and in that balanced energy, it is potentially ready to receive input for release of energy, and that input, dear ones, is available to the human consciousness. It "sees" all TIME as zero... never moving, even though many time frames exist within its energy. That is why, no matter what time frame is your reality, communication is instant between all entities that know of the lattice. This is a difficult concept for you to understand, since you don't even yet believe that there are many time frames present as you look through your instruments at "impossible physics" being displayed in the cosmos (as stated before in previous channellings). Time is like the air you breath. You watch incredible storms, with wind blowing many directions at many speeds, yet you breath it gently and normally, even in the midst of a great storm. Therefore YOUR breathing air, in your lungs, is nominally at rest, even while the air around you is in turmoil. The Cosmic Lattice is like this.

The Cosmic Lattice, dear ones, is what allows the mechanics for co-creation, for synchronicity, for what we have called love. The Cosmic Lattice contains the mechanics which allow for miracles on the planet. It responds to physics—it responds to consciousness. And so we begin to see the meld between what has been placed in the Universe for you.

The Cosmic Lattice is not God! But, as we have said before, God (Spirit) uses naturally occurring physics for the mechanics of miracles. Some of you wish to separate physics from God . You say, "Don't make science into God. Don't take away the magic!" We say, "Your time is limited where you can think in this fashion. For when you eventually discover some of the physical mechanics of Spirit, it's not going to diminish the magnificence of it at all, for we have told you for eight years now, that the elegance of God resides in the very cells of your body!" God absolutely uses the common physicalness of the energy around the cosmos for power... just like you are being invited to do. Understanding the physics of Spirit does not void out the LOVE! Instead, it gives a beautiful symmetry and logic to all things, and these things will become clearer to you as you move into the vibration where you can also use the energy of the lattice. The lattice, therefore, is not God. It is one of the most powerful TOOLS of Spirit that exists today, and contains much of what you have called unexplainable magic... the way of God. Does it shock you that Spirit uses the very physics it created to enable the way things work? Why create tools, and ignore them? No. This is a revelation to you of HOW Spirit works in the cosmos.

So we are telling you how it works. But that's not all, for The Cosmic Lattice is now responding to something it never did before on your planet. Energy is being created and time is being altered— all through human intent. There is no greater power in the Universe than HUMAN INTENT and LOVE, and we have told you this fact repeatedly since Kryon arrived. This is the night we finally have to correlate and equate it with the physics of love!

Oh, dear ones, now do you understand that when you give intent it is not some mysterious energy that seems to fly into the ethers and somehow manifest something you want or need? Now can you see that it has symmetry and size and purpose and consciousness, and that there is a mechanical attribute of physics and love around it called human intent? Now you begin to understand WHY New Age energy facilitators can do so much! They are "tapping in" to The Cosmic Lattice. There is no longer mystery regarding this, instead it will be someday be replaced with good solid science... God given, and Universal.

I will not be the only channel to bring forth this principle, and it will be known by many names, and will be the source of tremendous power—actual physical power—power that you can use for travel and energy... power that you can use for life sustenance. The resources of your planet that you have been using up to create power have a limit. There is no cleaner power anywhere than the lattice. This is physics, and it is known even by the enlightened that travel from here to there within the cosmos... in fact they often "ride" the lattice strings.

E.T.s

Let me tell you about certain E.T.s and The Cosmic Lattice. There is a group that exists on this planet, near this planet, and around this planet that is extremely curious about YOU. They poke you and they prod you and they abduct you. And there is one all-encompassing reason for their curiosity—and maybe now you'll understand more about it. YOU, dear ones, with the "piece of God" that sits in you (your duality) are able to communicate with The Cosmic Lattice, and these visitors see this fact clearly, for it is their power source! They want to know, "what kind of a creature is it that lives on this small planet, and only this planet, that has that kind of power! This will also explain, dear ones, why the E.T.s do not simply come and land here and show themselves, and ask you about this incredible human attribute. They recognize that you don't understand what you have. Also, because you are so incredibly powerful through your intent, just a few of you could simply vaporize them (if you knew how). That is how powerful you are. And so they capture you in FEAR, one at a time, for they respect your power and they want it—and they're curious beyond measure how you are able to connect to it. FEAR disconnects joy and creativity. Creativity and joy are related to INTENT, and their removal allows abduction. We have told you in the past that you never have to fear these creatures, for if they to you, all you have to is look at them and say, "I do not give you permission to be here." And believe me, dear ones, they will beat a retreat, for you contain the power of INTENT which is connected to the Universal power source called The Cosmic Lattice—and they know it! ...And the joke is, that you don't.

THE HOUSE OF JOY

We're going to build a house, you and I, right now. We have talked about human power, and in past channels we have talked about human peace. We've talked about love and honor. So many things we have brought to you over this time. Our heart connection is so strong with you! We can talk of science, but we'll always be brought back to the human HEART. The connection with The Cosmic Lattice, dear ones, is the joy connection. Did you know that? That's what we're going to talk about now. Although this may sound like unrelated information, it is actually the summary of The Cosmic Lattice revelation.

FOUNDATION

We're going to start building this house of joy with a foundation. As is the way of all builders, a foundation must be created for this house of joy, and we're going to tell you that the foundation for the house of joy is self-worth. And if you've never felt a bit of self-worth, now I am telling you something: This planet of free choice was designed and built with entities living on it that are pieces of God! It is the ONLY place in the Universe that is in "lesson" with CHOICE like this. Your test, therefore is a "remembrance" of who you really are. Oh, there are other planets which contain entities which are able to SPEAK to The Cosmic Lattice, but this Earth is special, for you are actually able to USE the lattice personally... and now you're getting to know why. There is so much honor for you!

This house of joy we're going to build together has a foundation of self-worth, and we're here to say that you cannot even begin to experience joy, until you understand your worthiness to be here. You deserve to be here! You are some of the only entities with a connection to this cosmic force, and we tell you that you are special. Now do you understand what the "love connection" means? No matter what the distance in the Universe, ALL who are connected to the lattice know who you are. They know that you are part of a grander plan, and every dot of light you see in the sky operates on the very power base that is available to you through self worth and human intent. Think of that the next time you're able to look up and see them all. Many who are there know your name! There's a consciousness that pervades it all that eventually you will know and recognize. That ought to give you some self-worth! The angel with your face that sits inside you belongs there. It is magnificent, and it has purpose—and at the cellular level you know why you are here. Stand tall and understand that the self-worth issue is the beginning of joy.

WALLS

Let us talk about the walls of this house of joy that we're building. Metaphorically the walls are going to support everything else. They will support the roof, which gives you shelter. They're eventually going to supply the protection from the elements—the walls of this house of joy. And dear ones, these walls are going to be built figuratively with your verbalization. You see, what you verbalize day to day is going to build the walls for your joy house. And again we tell you these things which we have told the other groups also: As you walk from one place to another, watch what are you verbalizing. Ask yourself, "Are the concepts you speak, perfect magnificent anointed words coming from a human being of pure intent?" If not, do you have a negative verbalization habit? Are you saying things like, "Oh, I knew that would happen!" In response to a challenge? Are the words you speak verbalizing things that are inappropriate about others? Is that the house you wish to build? Are your words verbalizing things which are uplifting? Are they verbalizing positive things that create power and healing? Or are they building nothing at all? These are the walls, and dear ones, without these walls being pure and carefully built, the house will never stand on its foundation. Practice verbalizing positive, uplifting truth. Create your walls with your voice. Make your verbalization your reality.

MORTAR

Let us talk next about the mortar. Figuratively, the mortar is a glue-like substance which hangs everything else together and makes it stick. You'll find it everywhere in your house. It's going to be stuck to the foundation and in the walls you verbalized. It's going to be in the ceiling. It's going to be in the windows and the door. Mortar is everywhere and you'll never guess what attribute we're going to assign to it. The mortar of the house of joy is laughter. It's humor! Oh, there are so many religious people walking the planet who are afraid to smile. They say, "God is serious," and they say, "Spirit would not have us to laugh at such a sacred time." I'm telling you, dear ones, that the laughter that we hear from humans IS sacred and anointed. It is, as my partner has stated earlier [during the day seminar] "the only attribute that passes intact through the veil to humans from Spirit." Humor! Laughter! You know what you feel when you laugh? When you laugh in the love of Spirit, you experience JOY! There is no greater anointed feeling, and it should give you chills to know this. Start your next meditation by laughing in the realization that we all share this wonderful mortar... something that we join in with you. Try it sometime. Watch the energy around the humor. Uproarious laughter is a sacred thing. It is! That's the mortar of the house of joy.

WINDOWS

Let us talk now about the windows in this special house. Metaphorically, dear ones, windows are what you look OUT of, upon the world. They're also the items used for those of the world to look IN upon you...and they are necessary. What is the attribute that would create the windows of the house of joy? Let me tell you. The attribute is the CONNECTION to The Cosmic Lattice which we have called the Mantle of God, or in your language, wisdom. Wisdom of Spirit is the connection to the lattice, for it involves LOVE. It is when you reach up and take the hand of God, and you "partner with God" in this new energy, that you receive the wisdom of the Mantle of Spirit. It allows you to look out upon the world in a wise fashion. It is this which allows you to be slow to react when accused, and which allows the patience and the peace of a human countenance which is gentle and quiet. This IS wisdom. It is the Mantle of Spirit and the connection with The Cosmic Lattice that keeps you in check when it would be easy to demean another, or to feel important because of it. When the world looks in your window, they will see the wisdom of God. Do you hear what I'm saying? Wisdom! And it is this wisdom that is available to each one here (and reading this) that creates the peace in a life that would not seem to be otherwise peaceful. Oh, that's where the JOY is! That's the miracle of the house you have built. You can take a deep breath right now and let the joy flow in. Know that you are an anointed piece of God in this anointed place, with infinite energy connected to The Cosmic Lattice.

DOOR

Now we come to the last piece, the door. Metaphorically, how are you going to get into the house of joy, even after you've built it? Even with self-worth—even with humor—even with good verbalization and wisdom, you must ENTER INTO the house, now that it's built, and experience what's inside. The greatest power in the Universe and on this planet right now is human INTENT. It's intent that will open the door to the house of joy. And what is it that you're going to intend first that's going to get you over the threshold that lets you stand in that place where you can laugh and have peace and be joyful with who you are? It is the intent to have LOVE enter your life. You're inviting The Cosmic Lattice! You're inviting the power that is beyond all power! It is profound!

Your house is complete. "What?" You say. "No roof?" No. Joy is unlimited, and can never have a lid. The lack of a roof in the house of joy is the metaphor of the open connection to God... the overflow of the power of joy... such is the love of God.

Each one of you carries a light, dear ones, that is seen clearly by every entity in the universe. There are entities so far away that you cannot even conceive that they might know of your light. However, they know what is taking place here, and they are preparing for their changes because of what you are doing. They are sending you love which is instant for what you have done. Your task on this planet is universal and it has very little to do with earth, did you know that? For what happens here will affect all of us, even the Kryon.

Is it any wonder that we come and sit at your feet and love you so? Is it any wonder that we now marvel that the veil has lifted, and we can give you this information? And we tell you that the physicists already know of part of the lattice. The ones who are discovering that consciousness changes their experiments are the ones who know something's up. It's coming. Look for it. There is so much more we could say, but now we just want to sit at your feet and love you.

(pause)

And so it is.

Kryon

