

SOEPC - Time To Rise Up and Share! 14th August 2021

Sharon Lees 17th August 2021

Dear All:

Thank you for the honesty, love, insight, wisdom and clarity that I observed and felt in all of your sharings thus far. Such beautiful, sincere hearts and souls are drawn into the EGA. Like Priya, I feel only gratitude and love for the Light of each Presence. I see that no one of us is more special than the other, each unfolding in divine timing and perfection according to the soul-lessons and learnings we are here to embrace. We are all a 'work in progress' as we integrate our soul's light into the personality, in order to become a fully functioning, Christ-Conscious Higher-Self and United as a Soul Group.

I would like to share a few excerpts from Sanaya Roman's Guide, Orin: (Personal Power of Awareness, H.J. Kramer Inc, Tiburon, California, 1986: p.140-41, p. 154-55) which I feel are pertinent before I go further.

"There is a mass thought that having a great mission means you must become famous. Many highly evolved souls with much important work to do choose to do it anonymously. Maybe your work involves a small circle of friends or raising a family. You cannot know the worth of the work you are doing here on earth if you are judging it by the standards of your personality (which only looks at the form of it) and other people's or society's standards. Only through the eyes of your soul can you know the impact of your life on mankind. By evolving yourself to the highest level you can, you create a doorway for those one step behind to come through. Much of the great work done for mankind is done in the telepathic arena, creating thoughts of a high vibration, and does not involve public recognition. Every being that evolves to his or her next level makes it that much easier for those just one step behind to follow. As you hold higher thoughts, learn your lessons, and radiate more love and peace, you are making a valuable contribution to mankind. Through those lines of thought that radiate out from you, you affect many people.

Do not think that to have great effect upon people you must be famous, be on TV or write books. Some people are learning about certain fields so that as they tap into the Universal Mind they open that doorway for mankind. Every place you create higher, wiser and more loving thoughts you have made a contribution. There are those who hold a great vision of peace for the planet, so that when people think of peace they will be able to tune into a vision of it. They live very solitary lives, and are very gentle and loving beings, virtually anonymous and living alone, often in isolated areas. All they do is hold the vision of peace so all who desire it find those images telepathically available. Many of you are affecting the earth telepathically through your own personal broadcast in ways you cannot know."

(For me this is a valuable reminder that if you try to live by other's rules, principles and values, forcing yourself to do things because you feel obligated, you will lose energy, lower your vibration and diminish your soul's light. It also reminds me not to judge appearances.)

"Allow yourself to feel which energies you want to feel and be a part of and which energies you simply want to release and let go of. You may be having many experiences right now in which others want something from you, or are disappointed in you, or are accusing you of not living up to what they expect. Wisdom is learning what is yours -- your thoughts, your expectations-- and what is another person's. How do you tell what energy is yours and what is others? Often you cannot tell until you "wear" their energy." "From time to time in the process of growth, you will bring other people's energy into your life; you will try living by their rules, principles and values to discover if they are yours. You may choose to keep those that agree with you. It will be your challenge to let go of those that do not. Do not feel guilty if you find yourself rejecting another's views or beliefs, even if those beliefs seem to be very moral or fit with what people call "right". Only you can know what is right for yourself."

"How do you tell what energy is yours and what is others? Often you cannot tell until you "wear" their energy. From time to time in the process of growth..." It seems to me that EGA has been in this very process of growth, "trying on" and "wearing" various energies in order to determine what 'form' fits best. It has morphed so much that some folks have no longer felt the compatible points of origin, the familiarity on a soul level that drew them here in the first place. I see this as multi-layered and I would like to put some points forward, which I feel are worthy of our consideration.

1. I feel that we in SOEPC need to reflect on what it means to retain our state of being as an organism whilst evolving into a state of becoming as an organisation. As we've all seen, the huge spike in membership catapulted us into a whole different mode requiring new ways to think, work, relate and tackle problems, not to mention a less intimate more formalized dynamic.
2. The entry of entire new soul groupings into EGA, who are sovereign in their own right and are part of the 'mosaic' which constitutes the EGA Divine Plan. These people/groupings may inevitably stretch our old ways of thinking and comfort levels. Can we make room for them and their unique ways of co-existing, co-creating within our organism/organisation, without judgement, agendas of our own, desire to assert authority over them or a need to mould all into conformity and uniformity? Because not only will it diminish their light but we'll miss out on what they are being led to bring us, their piece(s) or gifts that will help the evolution of the overall plan and EGA. With increasing numbers we have the challenge of remaining balanced in our group endeavours, while remaining open to specific promptings or missions some of the soul groupings may bring forward in the future as their contribution. Who gets to decide in EGA, anyway? Are there leadership issues within the organization that need to be addressed?
3. We are clear that we are an organism who functions to support both planetary and personal evolution. I personally think that All members of SOEPC, (not just those in EACOL) All in SOEPC, stand on equal footing as 'sonship' striving to evolve into Christ Council material! within the organism and within the organisation. If there is an "us and them" (EACOL and the rest of SOEPC) mentality, it will only serve to create an energy of division, a split or fracture at our very core. Personally, I sense and observe this happening, but feel it can only be temporary as we sort ourselves out. (This letter for instance is from Peter on behalf of EACOL (and the EGA) and I hope that all in SOEPC will come to this table on equal footing with the rest of us (even EACOL members who helped compose the letter) to share their hearts and thoughts in unity with this sonship.)

We serve as one voice and heart from our own capacities, intuitions and perspectives and all should be consulted and put in their two cents for consideration. Otherwise we have a top-down thing happening. I think the responses to this letter are a good indicator of how valuable every single SOEPC member's input is, not to mention it builds mutual regard, trust and paves the ground for collaboration around our intuitive impressions. I understand that things probably went energetically 'wonky' to some extent with the whole "trying on of energies and forms" when we went through the various growth stages of EGA, involving dissolving iamgaia and SOEPC and trying to form under the One World Nation group banner, creation of the Circles of Light, EACOL and now the 'resurrection' of SOEPC again. We have been in and out of the fitting room for a while and I personally am glad that we've resettled on SOEPC as a modus operandi which can be all inclusive and collaborative, because stability is important and we can offer that energetically to EGA. I believe we can accomplish more together and would like to see all of us contribute to the vision of where we see EGA going. Sharing our concerns as we're doing now, is a great start, although synthesizing all of these ideas we're putting forth and deciding what and how to utilize them is necessary.

4. As we've already seen, the rules and ways of operating that work within a more intimate setting change when an organism grows into a much larger organisation due to a big spike in membership. I'm in agreement that the forum is necessary for the Circle groups, but feel that there has to be clear protocols to keep it a 'safe space' for new members, many of whom appear to be sitting back and silently observing, possibly figuring out how 'safe' it really is (I've observed that many have zero posts). To me the forum does not present as a 'safe space' when it is used in any way to air grievances, admonish members for wrong doing or openly compare or judge one person's soul resonance to another's, as happened recently on the forum. In my opinion, this sends mixed signals about the forum as a neutral, safe, more 'public' space. From an egoic perspective, calling out someone for their misguided behaviour on a forum can appear to be a kind of public humiliation. I relate to this from the perspective of a retired adult educator. It was unacceptable for me to call someone out in front of their peers and I was expected to always protect their dignity, taking them aside to express any concerns.

5. I agree with Patrice who said the announcement of the last respite "felt like a fracture to the momentum" we were creating (the violet flame circle and Sunday group). Although I chose to make the most of the 'respite' personally, my soul didn't agree that it was necessary. In my opinion, it would have been appropriate to ask for feedback -- particularly from members of SOEPC so they could express their feelings around taking a break at that juncture. Personally, this whole mixed message within EGA that there are no 'leaders' and no one needs to be led, yet we are outright told what to do at times, seems contradictory. For me, upon checking in with my inner guidance, the timing of the respite did not feel right even though Peter instructed that St Germaine determined otherwise. Peter, to me 95 percent or more of your channelling is superbly clear and pure, but I imagine that there are times like for any human, the mind or personality filters interfere. I will always listen to my own soul's guidance first and feel that we should be consulted as the Inner Core of EGA since it's not about submission to another's truth. And I know that Peter himself (or St. Germain who has said as much in discourses) expects us to make our own choices. However, I would like to add that there is a difference between truly respecting individual sovereignty and subtle suggestions that if you're not compliant in the way being demanded, you are not being true to your vows to Godmother Vesta or the EGA Divine Plan. Those kinds of inferences leave negative undertones that can only serve from an egoic perspective, to diminish mutual trust, self-esteem and cause underlying tensions. And sometimes I do sense that happening in the discourses. Who has the right to judge another's resonance, level of commitment, devotion or soul development? I think all would agree that we all need to face our shadows, self-sabotage, defense mechanisms and subpersonalities for the good of our soul-development, but we never want to cause anyone to doubt their own truth, worth or devotion to their spiritual path and mission.

I understand that Peter, (and possibly EACOL??) recognizing that Barry had been prompted by St. Germaine to aid us, made the decision to take a risk and move forward to start opening the recorded discourses up to the general public. It came as a total surprise to me that all this had taken place, and it didn't feel inclusive or right that we we in SOEPC weren't made privy to all that was transpiring. We might have been given opportunity to consider the implications which obviously involved preparation, consultation and forethought as to repercussions before flinging the doors wide open. Or perhaps Peter's guidance was to just jump off the cliff and trust the Universe, rather than 'waiting', I don't know. Nonetheless, we could have been informed and if we hadn't been in a 'forced' respite period, we could have been available to be of assistance, whether esoterically or exoterically or both ways.

I don't feel a need to renew my pledges or vows. I'm okay with SOEPC returning to emails or staying on the forum. However, we have always shared our personal emails and locations and I would like to see that occur again for all SOEPC members who want to do that.

In closing, I would like to say that when I received Peter's letter, I had a lot of thoughts brewing and I found it difficult to write. So forgive me for the length of this and the wordiness. In any case, upon sitting with the letter, instead of moving into all the stuff running through my mind, I began listening to the Sound Current which aligned me to my Soul's Note and also the Soul Note of EGA. I'd like to share the invocation and benediction that came through which really is a sharing of 'where I'm at' in relation to EGA.

Invocation:

Mighty Stream of Love, I AM that I AM, Cosmic Symphony Flowing Through the Great Central Spiritual Sun, We Joyously Merge Our Souls' Notes into One Sacred Melodious Heartsong of Majestic Frequencies, a Musical Synthesis of Our Group Antakharanas's Vibrating Strands of Solar Light. As One Unified Instrument and Conduit to Earth and Humanity, We Stream Forth the Light of Christ and All Ascended Masters in Order to Awaken, Align and Aid Humanity to Re-member, Re-calibrate and Re-collect. I AM an Anchor For the Rays of Divine Will That Serve to dislodge, deconstruct and dissolve all darkness. I AM the Sound Current That Restores All to Their Keynotes. I AM the Rhythmic Pulsation of the Great Central Sun, Circulating the Sacred Fire of Truth and Transmutation Throughout the Collective Field, Bringing Joy, Balance, Love, Peace, Harmony, Inspiration, Beauty and Higher Evolution. I AM the Heartsong Which Liberates the Beloved, Fueling Freedom's Fire. I AM the Spaciousness of One World Nation and True Constitution, Restoring and Aligning All Nations and Kingdoms of Earth to Their Intended Compatibility and Divine Points of Origin.

Benediction:

We lift the Chalice of Our Hearts in Unity, Embracing the One Diamond Light of Christ Consciousness Reflected In Each Other. We Affirm Our Mutual Devotion to the EGA Divine Plan and Mission to Bring About the Era of Love and Peace On Earth. We Give Gratitude For the Peace of Highest Purpose That Strengthens Our Mutual Bonds and Acceptance of Each Other as Family of Light. We Pledge Our Whole-Hearted Commitment to Our Own I AM Presences, to Our Group Ashramic Life and to the Masters That Unwaveringly Send Us Their Love, Strength, Guidance and Encouragement, Holding Us Steadily Within Their Auric Fields. We Move Forward as One Band of Light, Supporting One Another to the Best of Our Abilities.

Love and Blessings: Sharon
